EASTERN DATES TO AUGUST 26.

More Fighting Reported.

PARIS, August 25.—Figaro extras say a fight is reported as having occurred to-day between Verdun and Chalons, in which the Prussians were defeated. Groups of Prussian stragglers, cavalry and infantry, are continually coming into Chalons.

A combat commenced this morning at three o'clock, and news reached Chalons and Epernay about three in the afternoon. It is rumored that the entire army of Prince Charles is engaged.

Epernay is to be evacuated to-morrow.

Little or Nothing.

PARIS, August 25.—The Prussian troops have closely surrounded Strasbourg, yet the Government treasurer managed to escape with over twelve million francs.

The Belgian Minister here is authorized to positively contradict the statement that the passage of wounded Prussians through the territory of Belgium has been permitted or attempted.

BERLIN, August 25—7:30 P. M.—The Prussian Moniteur says King William's headquarters have been removed from Pont-a-Mousson to Bar le Duc.

The headquarters of the first and second armies are near Metz, while the other corps continue the march on Paris.

More Conjectures from Paris.

PARIS, August 25.—A Rheims dispatch of the 23d says it is supposed that the armies of McMahon and Bazaine had effected a junction, and supported by a quadrilateral composed of the fortresses of Verdun, Thionville, and Metz, would await attack.

It is not expected that any important battle will occur within two days.

Montmedy advices to the 21st say the Prussian cavalry cut the railroad at Autun.

Movement of French Troops.

NEW YORK, August 25.—A Tribune's cable dispatch from London, the 25th, says: Rheims correspondence of Tuesday reports McMahon's command at fully two hundred thousand strong, and all moved towards Ardennes to join Bazaine. Organization proceeds with the utmost dispatch. Another army of old troops, which will reach three hundred and fifty thousand strong is forming near Chalons

Another Prussian Ship Captured.

ATHENS, August 18, via London, 25th.—The Prussian ship Viladen was captured by a French man-of-war and taken into Syria.

General War News.

[By Cable to the N. Y. Tribune, August 15.]

The Prussian soldiers say the hardest fighting of all was at Weissenburg. There was much hand to hand work; but the French, though brave, did not know how to use the bayonet, and no Prussian received a bayonet wound.

Though the engagements at Weissenburg and Worth are regarded as minor combats, yet they are in reality of the highest importance. The earliest official dispatches underestimate the magnitude and extent of the victories. Instead of a few hundred prisoners having been captured at Weissenburg, the number amounts to nearly 2,000. Both struggles were stubborn. The French stood their ground well, and their rifles proved terribly destructive. It was downright hard fighting which enabled the Germans to claim the honors of the day. A wounded French prisoner avowed, in my presence, his countrymen could not withstand the weight of the German attack. The fight being one not of bullets, but of bayonets also. It was decided at last by the actual strength of the respective combatants. Physically, the average German soldiers are heavier men than the French. It was supposed the introduction of new weapons would alter the mode of warfare, and render the old style of hand-to-hand combat obsolete. This engagement proved otherwise. The Zouaves did what they could to check the advance of the German regiment by pouring in a volley of fire from a concealed position. They had posted themselves in pits dug for the purpose, and not until the advancing regiment had suffered from this concealed fire did German soldiers know their prowess was to be contested. They saw no sign of troops in the front. Such an ordeal as this tested the stuff of which these men are made. They bore themselves with extraordinary valor. Men were struck down by hundreds, yet the regiment never moved. The Zouaves were driven from their place of concealment, and the ground they had occupied was won by their opponents. The exact details were not forthcoming, and it is impossible to learn, even approximately, how many fell; but it is quite certain that the German loss was proportionately enormous. During the day and night the wounded have been arriving here. This afternoon all the beds in the hospitals were occupied. These hospitals will contain about 1,000 men. The field hospitals are full and 100 wounded men have been sent to Frankfort, where there is accommodation for 5,000. Long strings of stretchers, on which lay wounded soldiers and officers, have been passing through the streets to-day. So great is the slaughter that the arrangements proved insufficient. The wounded men laid for hours on the battle-field before they were discovered.

Our special correspondent writes from Hamburg Thursday: "The French fleet is unlikely to effect anything. Their iron-clads draw too much water to approach the coast. Prussian vessels are prohibited from leaving any port between Warnunde and the frontier of Jutland, neutral flags not included. General Falkenstein has just returned from a tour of inspection of coast defences, and is confident that Hamburg has nothing to fear from invasion.

The Paris Patrie says when Strasbourg was invested it was completely supplied with ammunition; that all places likely to be injured by the enemy's shot have been strengthened. Many persons left town willingly and others were sent away. Strasbourg, it adds, can only be captured through famine, and it has been provisioned for many months. The Journal Officiel says activity at the Ministry of War is wonderful, and all the immense resources of the country will soon be available. Volunteering continues in large numbers. The authorities deny the statement of German journals that the French do not respect the Convention of Geneva, and attend only to French wounded.

GENERAL TROCHU.—The New York World says:

"Trochu has the triple talent of writing, talking and fighting." So said Marshal Bugeaud, a good judge of men, and especially of soldiers. In the flying rumors which come to us laden with facts and theories, possible and impossible, Trochu's name is associated with the possibility of a military dictatorship. The English military critics have long known Trochu as one of the strong intellects of the French army—inferior to none in the Crimea, save, perhaps, only to Todtleben. We have already given some account of his soldierly qualities. In personal appearance he is described as being of middle size, elegant in figure, but strong and sinewy. He has a pleasing countenance, full of intelligence, and his address is quick, almost warm. He has a broad thoughtful forehead, slightly bald; small eyes, but so brilliant and sparkling that they constitute a remarkable feature. His hand is nervous though small, and while his whole aspect is that of a soldier, there is such absence of pretention that one is not obliged to address him always as M. le General. His army predilections have not hardened his heart, though they may have given him stronger views of duty. His brother having died and left him children unprovided for, Trochu took charge of them all, and for their sakes he has remained a bachelor. He is not a man of extended popularity, but his merits are known to the judicious few, and by them set at an exceedingly high value.

Ex-Governor Orr, of South Carolina, announces himself as fully in sympathy with the Republican party of that State. Orr was one of the Confederate leaders, and before the late civil war a Democrat. In his letter announcing his adhesion to the Republican party he says: "For many years to come that party must control the State, and opposition to it will only augment and perpetuate existing evils."

LAST NIGHT'S DISPATCHES.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

Prussians Marching on Paris.

BERLIN, August 26.—One corps of the First and Second Armies still confront Bazaine, which the remainder of the Prussian forces have marched on Paris.

Counter Report from French Sources.

PARIS, August 26.—The environs of Metz are inundated.

The French authorities and Council of Ministers yesterday communicated valuable news from both armies. It is now certain that there was no serious fighting yesterday. The Government has received information that the Prussians are no longer at Chalons, and that the Prince Royal has retrograded.

Many arrests were made last night. Over 1,200 were occasioned by the order of General Trochu. Two hundred persons were arrested on the Faubourg of Montmartre.

Siege of Strasbourg.

CARLSRUHE, August 26.—There was a severe artillery battle at Kehl and Strasbourg on Wednesday night, lasting till Thursday morning. A French battery located at Marvein was captured without loss to the Prussians. The French fire destroyed about 20 houses.

Another Statement from Prussian Sources.

BERLIN, August 26.—The French stories that the Prussians were checked yesterday before Chalons and Verdun are false.

Rumors from Paris.

PARIS, August 26.—Couriers of the enemy have been seen at Brienne and Uhlans.

The Prince Royal was at St. Dizier on Tuesday. The garrisons at Toul are making a heroic defense. The enemy are marching toward Vernenuet. General Trochu has demanded the displacement of Pitrie as Prefect of Paris.

Dispatches from London.

LONDON, August 26.—A sharp engagement in which the Prussians were successful, occurred on Thursday night. Many French were wounded.

Strasbourg has been incessantly bombarded by the Prussians since Tuesday, and the citadel is very badly damaged. The walls are terribly battered. The Prussians have advanced with a siege train within five hundred yards of the city several magazines have been exploded in the city and at the fort. Fires have also broken out in many places. Prussian loss trifling.

NEW YORK, August 26.—Private dispatches from London this afternoon say there are rumors of fighting. It is feared McMahon is defeated.

Official circles are very silent, more so than at any time this week.

The enemy marches slowly but surely towards Paris.

PARIS, August 26.—The engineers were engaged yesterday in making bridges over the Marne, which will be destroyed on the approach of the Prussians.

The Prussian government has taken measures to cause Belgium to permit transportation of munitions of war and wounded soldiers across her territory.

LONDON, August 26.—Heavy fighting commenced last night at Chenace, ten miles from Montmedy, in the direction of Dorviziers. The Prussians cut the railway between Chanvages and Stenvilly. The wounded were brought into Montmedy. The gates of the city were closed. An assault is expected soon.

A strong detachment of Prussian cavalry now occupy Dentunant.

Prussian Cuirassiers have occupied Eunry.

A formidable iron-clad ram, two guns, flying French colors, passed Dover, going east, to-day.

Heavy Losses by the Prussians.

PRAGUE, August 26.—One of the journals of this city publishes a letter from Berlin, dated August 19, which says: We are persuaded here that efforts are making to conceal the fact that the Prussians lost seriously in the battles of the 15th and 16th. The details furnished here are not credited. It is openly asserted that the losses were so great that the army is discouraged and unable to advance. Yesterday a demonstration was made before the palace. Crowds assembled demanding to know the news. When the Queen informed them they replied, "No more? that is already known." The crowd slowly dispersed, unconvinced and dissatisfied.

McMahon and Bazaine said to be Cut Off from Paris.

LONDON, August 26.—McMahon and Bazaine are out of communication with Paris.

CALIFORNIA.

From San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 26.—Another heart-sickening outrage was perpetrated here yesterday upon a girl thirteen years of age, a daughter of an excellent family in Brookly, Alameda county. She was taken from her home, as is supposed, by a railroad conductor, and brought to this city, drugged and violated. She found her way to the Cosmopolitan Hotel in an almost insensible condition, and was taken home by her father, who was in search of her, and died last night. The officers are working up the case.

Geo. Perrier, an English miner, was killed at Grass Valley by a cave last night.

The jury in the Brotherton forgery case, the defendant being charged with forging checks of Treadwell & Co., disagreed last night as was anticipated. They stood nine for and three against conviction.

The Tax Payers have amended their ticket, and as a whole it appears acceptable to the Republicans.

The subsidy for the San José & Alviso Railroad was defeated at San Jose by a small majority yesterday.

F. W. Horn, a German, aged 27, committed suicide by strangling himself with a handkerchief last evening.

Business generally very dull.

The war news surprises even the warmest German partizans, and utterly confounds the French who can give no satisfactory explanation of the uninterrupted advance of the Prussians on Paris.

War Feeling in France and Germany.

[London Correspondence New York Times.]

I was soon able to ascertain that the peace party in France, however much and however justly distinguished, is so small as that, for the present, at all events, practically microscopic. It is no exaggeration to say that from top to bottom of the social scale, France as one man, accepts this war, or rather, I ought to say, for that is the exact word, jumps at it. The English papers, particularly the Times and Daily News, endeavored at first (who can blame them?) to strengthen the chances of peace by representing the war spirit in France as confined to the army and the riff-raff. But, believe me—and I doubt not you are already persuaded of it—such is not the case. France never in her long annals entered more unanimously, more enthusiastically, or with a closer, more passionate, personal feeling into any war than she has now done into this war against Prussia. To be sure, she cherished the hope that the war would be waged against Prussia only, and that the South German States would be, if not active allies of France, at all events secret friends. This hope has been dispelled. Germany sprang to her feet as unanimously as France: and even the German organs at Vienna, to the great disgust of the French, are as strongly in favor of Prussia as if they were written in Berlin. The conclusion is plain. This is a national war between the two chief nations of Continental Europe, in which every single man on each side feels that he is fighting, in the great struggle of this century for the final preeminence of his race. The very merchants and bankers on both sides, who refused at first to believe in the war, say, now that it has come, for Heaven's sake, fight it out, exhaust the question, let us have no hollow make-shifts—we are devoured with doubt, we are crushed by armaments—if you do not settle the matter now, confidence hereafter will be hopeless. Therefore, settle it once for all. Whether such a settlement between two nationalities can be effected in one war, may be questioned. But one thing is clear, this is not a war to be settled in one battle, nor two, nor perchance a dozen.

CURRENT NOTES.

The Springfield (Ill.) Register says the work on the Lincoln Monument is progressing satisfactorily. Several car loads of granite arrive daily, and the blocks are being rapidly placed in position.

In the geological survey of Demerara, a magnificent fall has just been found on the Potaro river. The river is about three hundred feet wide and fifteen or twenty feet deep, and descends perpendicularly in an unbroken fall of 900 feet.

An "anti-coolie" politician in San Francisco ends a long article on his favorite topic in this style: The dogma of infallibility, the inducing God Almighty to do certain things through prayer and the hauling of Chinamen up to heaven by his tail are all in keeping.

The New York Sunday Mercury is about to have the heaviest libel suit ever instituted in that State. It was the author of the report that Benjamin Nathan was murdered by his son, for which accusation the said son and some wealthy Hebrew friends intend to break up the paper. The suit is for $500,000.

Professor Peter Litchfield, of Utica Observatory, discovered 1,118 asteroids on the border between the constellation Aquarius and Capricornus, in 321 degrees right ascension and 13 degrees south declination, going south at the rate of thirty minutes per day, and easterly fourteen minutes.

It is stated that Dr. Gatling, a Hartford inventor, exhibited his revolving gun to the French authorities some time ago, when, professing themselves greatly pleased therewith, they expressed a desire to possess the drawings, a desire which was at once gratified by the confiding inventor. He heard nothing more from his patrons, it appears, but finds that his device, a little modified, has "worked wonders" under the name of Mitrailleur.

A Fifth Avenue hotel waiter was discharged on Friday, and vented his spite by advertising in Saturday's New York papers for 500 Irishmen to go to France: application to be made at Room 68, Fifth Avenue Hotel. Result: the halls and corridors of the hotel were filled by ten o'clock, with hundreds of Hibernians—so crowding the guests and visitors of the house, that there was a necessity of clearing the intruders out; and it was not until they were put out, that the proprietors knew to what circumstance they were indebted for such a visitation.

The late school census of Chicago, which included an enumeration of all the people, returns a total population of 306,605. The Tribune thinks the Federal census will hardly reach 300,000. But it says there are 9,000 Chicagoans living outside the city—in Hyde Park and at the Stock Market—who will not be counted by the Federal Marshals. Ten years ago the population of Chicago was 109,000. The increase has been about 185 per cent, in ten years, or 18½ per cent. per annum. This is six times the ratio of the annual increase of the whole country.

The New York Review insists that Poe wrote "The Raven," notwithstanding a fellow named Shaver says Samuel Fenwick wrote it. The Review relieves its mind in this way: "This is but one of the many instances of brazen fraud. Will some one now rake in the stable yards of Ohio, or the common sewers of Mississippi, or the cess-pools of Texas, and find a piece of brown paper containing Longfellow's confession to Tom Hyer that Willis died of a broken heart, occasioned by remorse for having stolen 'Thanatopsis' from a deck hand on a Mississippi steamboat and sold it to William Cullen Bryant."

The emigration from Bremen from 1831 to 1863 comprised 811,416 passengers, and from 1864 to 1869, 338,166 passengers, making a total of 1,149,582 from 1832 to 1869. In 1869, 63,619 passengers were transported from Bremen in 205 vessels; 59,340 of these persons were Europeans, 4,089 were citizens of the United States, and all but 757 went to the United States. In the same year, 1869, 12,141 emigrants sailed from Denmark; six for Canada, nine for Australia, and all the rest for the United States. By nationality, 4,360 belonged to Denmark, 6,614 to Sweden, and the remainder to Norway and Germany.

Paradol was a widower with three children, the oldest of whom is in France. Miss Paradol is a very beautiful and accomplished young lady of eighteen years. The servants speak in the most affectionate terms of the family. In person Paradol was a man of middle stature, plump and compact body, with a dark, almost swarthy complexion, oval face, long head, features of a decidedly Jewish type, black hair and full beard, both cut short and close. In conversation he spoke English somewhat deliberately, but with a purity of accent and ease which was remarkable. His French, as became so accomplished a scholar and writer, was perfection itself.

From the New York Tribune: Our financiers do not believe that the further progress of the war is likely to affect injuriously American securities. The rise in the price of gold, has thus far prevented the return of our bonds, which had been so much and so unwisely dreaded, and no serious derangement in consequence seems now to be apprehended. As the war advances, they believe that European investors will gradually come to regard with more and more favor the obligations of the only strong Government whose finances are in a healthy condition, and whose situation is such that there is no possibility of its being drawn into the contest. In this case, the market for our bonds would be increased, not diminished, by the war; and the United States would substantially become a Safe Deposit Company for Europe.

CALIFORNIA AND NEVADA.

The Central Pacific and California and Oregon railroads in Placer county, Cal., are assessed at $6,000 per mile.

A man in Yolo county, Cal., has a flock of 1,200 turkeys, which he drives about from place to place to pasture on grasshoppers.

A prisoner of the Storey county jail, Nevada, named Pinschower, attempted to commit suicide, August 15th, by hanging himself in his cell.

The "Anti-Coolie Party" in San Francisco have decided to put a separate ticket in the field. They are not satisfied with the ticket presented by the Democrats.

Fifty Chinamen in the employ of a San Francisco company, are engaged in reclaiming tule lands on Napa creek, near Vallejo. The company have mapped out about 11,000 acres to be reclaimed.

The war progresses in Nevada. The Virginia Enterprise of the 16th says: At the brewery in American Flat, night before last, another grand fight of all nationalities took place. Germans, Irish, French, Americans, Spanish, Swedes, Sclavonians, Italians and English participated on the festive occasion. The representative of Albion appears to have been very closely engaged, as he came out of the fight with one of his "blawsted" eyes hanging on his cheek and with his "bloody" nose split open. Although beaten, he was not whipped—"Whip Johnny Bull! they cawn't do it, you know."

Referring to a proposition that has been made in Oregon to buy and hold lands for immigrants, selling the same to them on credit at actual cost, the Stockton (Cal.) Independent says: San Francisco capitalists are more shrewd in their efforts to secure immigration to California. They buy up the land first and then advocate the appropriation of money by the State to bring immigrants for the purpose of selling them lands at a great profit. It is true that Oregon is filling up much faster than California with a valuable class of immigrants. San Francisco, however, is still the metropolis of the Pacific coast, and her business men are, in their own estimation, very enterprising.

The Daily Oregonian

SATURDAY MORNING, AUGUST 27, 1870

Address of the Republican Congressional Committee

The Republican Congressional Committee have published an address to the Republicans of the United States, in which the political events of the last ten years are [illegible] reviewed, the issues of the present time clearly and forcibly stated, and the claims of the Republican party for equal support in the coming elections fairly presented.

There are four periods in the party's history. The first is that of organization, and it ended when after several defeats the party finally triumphed by electing Mr Lincoln. The second period was that of the rebellion. The third was the era of reconstruction, of equal suffrage, of equal rights under the law. The fourth period is the present. It may be called the period of political development, of national recuperation. Great problems in finance, in material development, in civil and national polity are to be met and solved. The Republican party addresses itself resolutely, sincerely to the task. Its record is an open one, and on that it founds its claims for the continued confidence of the country. It has never betrayed that confidence in the past. It bore the conduct of a mighty war when it was carefully watched for errors, when failure would have been its own death. It emancipated, protected and enfranchised the negroes when an opposite course might have made it many friends in the defeated and disappointed South. That it was permitted to do these things proves that its general course was endorsed by the country. It has led but it has never defied the will of the people by whom it has been entrusted with power.

It is but fair and just, as the Committee urge, that the whole career of the party shall be considered in determining its claims for popular support. Its measures, generally, have without doubt commended themselves to the judgement and gained the approbation of the country. It is not necessary now to dwell upon what the party has accomplished in years past, but it is proper to take notice of what it has achieved and is achieving in managing questions and issues now immediately before us.

General Grant, as the Committee very properly say, came into office pledged to maintain inviolate the public faith, reduce the national debt, diminish taxation, appreciate the currency, reform abuses in the civil and military service, and maintain order in the States lately in rebellion. That this pledge has been faithfully kept the increased revenues, increased without any increase in the articles subject to taxation—and the diminished expenditures, fully attest. "In the interests of economy the services and thousands of employes, both civil and military, have been dispensed with. The currency has been appreciated in value by tens of scores of millions of dollars and the national credit has been largely strengthened. Then the splendid showing in the decrease of the debt is not to be forgotten. Reconstruction has been completed. Every State has been restored to its relations with the Government of the Union. The country as a whole was never more peaceful or prosperous. The Republican policy is fully vindicated, and the Republican party by its achievements and success in administering the affairs of the country has justified the confidence reposed in it by the people.

France on Her Defence.

All the recent movements of the French show that though they were so hasty in declaring war they were totally unprepared for it. It looks as if they had been outnumbered from the first, and as if they were now endeavoring to avoid fighting so as to gain time for more extensive and better organization.

Meantime the German armies are in France and appear to be marching very much at their own will. One great army is on the way to Paris, and the remainder of the German forces are disposed about Metz and the line of the Moselle, holding in check Bazaine and McMahon. Dispatches now state that it is Prince Frederick Charles, not the Crown Prince, who is marching toward Paris. The bulk of the French forces are in the rear of this army. McMahon some days ago withdrew to the north of Chalons towards Montmedy, and allowed this German force to pass by without a battle. It is safe, therefore, to presume that the French Marshals do not consider Paris in immediate danger. They evidently trust to General Trochu to organize an army sufficient to meet Frederick Charles, or, at any rate, to defend Paris. Their object probably is to let the Prince advance, in the hope that the army organized for the defence of Paris may be able to take care of him. If he should be defeated he would be in a perilous position. He might be cut off completely from reinforcements, and troops from McMahon and Bazaine might be thrown upon his rear. His army thus isolated might be nearly or wholly destroyed.

The campaign appears now to be taking a shape that bears some resemblance to that of 1814. Whether its results will be similar remains to be determined. In that campaign Napoleon, after having struggled for some time against overwhelming numbers, decided to throw his forces on the rear of the allies and cut off their communications with Germany, leaving Marmont and Mortier to take care of Paris. Napoleon accordingly commenced his march toward the strong places on the frontier. He was confident that this movement would cause the allies to turn back from Paris, or if they did not he [illegible] with certainty that Marmont and Mortier would be able to defend the city till he could come up. The allies, however, pursued their course directly to Paris and by means of their overwhelming force captured it. It is evident that in the present campaign the French commanders Bazaine and McMahon expect Paris to hold out against the German army now making its way toward the city, while they attend to the other German forces about Metz, and if possible defeat them, when they would be able to cut the communications of the army that has gone towards Paris and probably annihilate it. Such would seem to be the motive of McMahon in moving to the side and allowing the German forces to pass in the direction of the Capital. Whether it is an idea borrowed from the first Napoleon or not, it bears a certain resemblance to his strategy in 1814.

All European correspondents agree that when war was declared the French people were unanimous and enthusiastic in support of it. As one of the writers stated, France as one man jumps at it. We think it safe to guess that they will receive such a lesson in the present war that they will not be in haste to jump at the next one.

The Rival Weapons

Notwithstanding their [illegible] the French still maintain that their Chassepot is a better and more efficient weapon than the Prussian needle gun. If this be true, results so far indicate that Chassepot has not the [illegible] of men behind it as the [illegible]. It may be of interest, however, to recall the fact that American [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] in [illegible] of 18[illegible] [illegible] States [illegible] arms [illegible] in which they said [illegible] Sp[illegible] has [illegible] Chassepot gun [illegible] those adopted by the French army. Experiments have been made with [illegible] have furnished important results. The Chassepot is certainly superior to the Prussian needle gun. Comparative essays have been made with the two. Mr [illegible] fifty officers of all arms witnessed them. The Chassepot was in the hands of M Specht, the needle gun in those of one of the best marksmen in the garrison. The arrangement was to fire with each weapon per minute. The needle gun was the first. It fired eight [illegible] and struck the target eight times. The Chassepot fired ten shots and was loaded the eleventh time within the minute; it also reached the target eight times. The two guns were afterward fired together during half a minute; the needle gun discharged three shots, the Chassepot [illegible]. The New York Tribune says that both weapons may be seen at some of the New York gun shops.

At the Democratic State Convention last March, some of the [illegible] bed to [illegible] gentlemen there assembled grew indignant and furious because the local editor of the leading organ was a Republican, and the nomination for State Printer could not be had by the principal proprietor of the said leading organ until he had pledged himself to dismiss the obnoxious [illegible] and moreover to employ some brains on the leading editorial columns. Both these conditions were accepted by the proprietor and he was supported by his party and elected. But no sooner is the election over than he employs a Republican as leading editor! Now if the party could not endure a Republican for local editor, how will it relish a Republican for editor in chief? But perhaps the proprietor may plead that he was forced to employ a Republican in order to carry out his promise to procure "some brains" for the paper. It seems, however, to be a violation of party canons, and a State council of the party ought to be summoned to consider it. A Democratic paper had better be without "brains" than without the true Democratic ring.

A dispatch from Washington to the New York Times states that the work of reducing the number of army officers in accordance with the provisions of the new army act, is well begun. The names of some long als[illegible] from their commands have been dropped from the rolls. A good many have already resigned on one year's pay, and more have indicated a [illegible] to do so. Assignments of supernumeraries to vacancies and duty are being made. The retired list is to be increased by 120, and about that number have applied to be retired. Those not retiring by right of long service are to be examined, and retirement will probably be refused to some of these who have made application. Steps have been taken to get lists of those whom the Department commanders think ought to be mustered out for incompetency. These are to go before a board which will not be appointed for some weeks yet. The required reduction in the rank and file will be made in due season, mostly by the expiration of the term of service of enlisted men and non-commissioned officers.

We don't know whether any of the older counties of the State will be able to show a greater proportionate increase in population during ten years than Tillamook, or not. In 1860 the aggregate population of that county was 95. It is now 108, a gain of over 400 per cent. This, however, resembles the boasted Democratic gains in Maine two years ago. A Democratic paper put it in this way: Vote of a certain town in 1866, two. Vote in 1868, four. Gain in two years, 100 per cent. At this rate the redemption of Maine by the Democracy is only a question of time!

WAR NOTES

Napoleon is supposed to sit a little firmer on the throne of France than he did a week ago. A victory is still very much needed to strengthen his position.

It is evidence of bad generalship on the part of the French that the Prussians have greatly outnumbered them in all their engagements. The troops display desperate valor but for want of concentration it is ineffective.

The New York Tribune has the following "notice: Lost, Stolen, or mislaid, a French Prince, 14 years of age, of tranquil temperament, wears red trowsers and carries a bullet in his pocket. Was last seen going home from a baptism of fire. Is supposed at Paris to be in Metz, is supposed at Metz to be in Paris, is supposed at other places to be in London. Any information concerning him will be received with the greatest indifference by the Corps Legislatif."

The New York Standard closes an article on the war with the following observations: "The disenchantment cannot be delayed much longer, and may be that Germany and France, whom we now see blindly, madly following two crowned adventurers, may come out of the encounter hand in hand, linked in perpetual Republican unity and friendship. If the people could speak this would be. Our duty is to foster this sentiment. Napoleon and William are the common enemies of liberty. Frenchmen and Germans are our brethren. There can be no victory that will be truly peace, unless the people win and the systems perish."

It is a curious fact, of which no really satisfactory explanation has ever been given, that as fire arms are rendered more and more deadly, war becomes less and less destructive of human life. At Borodino the loss was one third of all the men engaged. At Waterloo it was one fourth. At Inkerman, where there was neither a rifled cannon nor a breech loader on the field, the English lost one third. At Magenta and Solferino, with vastly better weapons, the casualties were one-seventh; at Chattanooga, one-thirteenth, while at Königgrätz, where the terrible needle gun caused such consternation, the losses were only one twenty third.

Kinglake, the historian, in his history of the Crimean War, thus speaks of the indecision which characterizes the action of Napoleon III: "In general men are prone to find out consistency in the acts of rulers and to imagine that numberless acts appearing to have different aspects are the result of one steady design; but those who love truth better than symmetry will be able to believe that much of the conduct of the French Emperor was rather the effect of clashing purposes than of duplicity. There are philosophers who imagine that the human mind (corresponding in that respect with the brain) has a dual action, and that the singleness of purpose observed in a decided man is the result of a close accord between the two engines of thought, and not of actual unity. Certainly it would appear that the Emperor Louis Napoleon, more than most men, was accustomed to linger in doubt between two conflicting plans, and to delay his final adoption of the one and his final rejection of the other for as long a time as possible, in order to find out what might be best to be ultimately done by carrying on experiments for many months together with two rival schemes of action."

SAN DIEGO, August 26.—A. B. Horton was severely injured this morning by being thrown from a buggy.

New quartz discoveries are reported in Julian county, near Helvetia. The lode is four inches in width but excessively rich. Four pounds of ore yielded $1 25.

Stockton Dispatch

STOCKTON, Aug. 26.—The excursion to Oakland next Sunday from this place promises to be a stupendous affair. Between that and a camp meeting being held at Mokelumne Station the city bids fair to be evacuated.

A band of Digger Indians came in from the mountains to-day and interviewed the town. It is surmised that they have either come to take possession of the town or to work on the ship canal.

The city Republican Convention assembled at the City Hall to-night and was largely attended. The purpose for which the Convention assembled was to nominate a Supervisor for the first district of San Joaquin county, which embraces the entire city. There were only two candidates in the field, H. M. Fanning and A. B. Bennett. There were 246 votes polled, of which Fanning received 163 and Bennett 83.

Two Men Killed in a Mining Shaft

VIRGINIA CITY, Aug. 26.—Last evening Thos Stanton and David Ryan were instantly killed in the main shaft of the Hale & Norcross mine by the cage falling to the bottom of the shaft. John Cochran was considerably bruised about the hip and back, but not dangerously injured. The cage and car fell with such force as to break through two platforms of 9 by 12 inch timbers. The lowest of these timbers was twelve feet above the men in the shaft, and the other 70 feet higher, yet the cage went through both like a cannon shot. Both the men were natives of Ireland. Stanton leaves a wife and two children in this city, and Ryan leaves a wife in Gold Hill.

THE TERRITORIES

The Olympia Tribune says Geo. A. Barnes & Co., not Phillips, Horton & Co., have established a banking house at that place.

Indians are said to be prowling about the Owyhee country again and people are advised by the Avalanche to be on their guard against them.

There is a quartz vein at Owyhee called the "Chipmunk," which is only three inches wide, but it is fabulously rich in gold, and eight men are at work upon it making a great deal of money.

Mountain City, Cope District, contains a population of 600 persons. The place is situated on the east bank of the Owyhee river in a little valley about half a mile wide and probably two miles long. It is 102 miles in a southerly direction from Silver City, and 85 miles north of Elko. The town proper consists of about 100 buildings, fully one half of which are constructed of canvas, the remainder of lumber, adobe, etc.

The Owyhee Avalanche says: "The painful rumor which we published a couple of weeks ago in relation to the murder of Jeff Standifer, W. J. Burnham and 20 others by Indians in the Wind River mountains, is probably a mistake, as we have just been permitted the perusal of a letter dated Missoula July 22d, which mentions the fact of Burnham and 21 others having gone north into the Blackfoot country only a few days previous."

SATURDAY MORNING, AUGUST [illegible] 1870

CITY.

[illegible] CONFERENCE.—The Eighteenth Annual [illegible] of the M. E. Church [illegible] convened at Vancouver on Thursday. Bishop [illegible] presiding. [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] religious services were conducted by [illegible] Ames. [illegible] the members of the Conference [illegible] [illegible] was elected by a [illegible] W. [illegible] was nominated and elected Assistant Secretary and [illegible]

[illegible] Rev. John Dillon, of the Ohio Conference [illegible] New York Conference [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the Conference and invited to participate in the proceedings.

[illegible] Rev. W. [illegible] of the Tennessee Conference was also introduced by the Bishop and by transfer became a member of the Conference.

The regular disciplinary business of the Conference was then taken up.

J. T. Dev[illegible], Presiding Elder of Portland District, being called upon, proceeded to represent the work and workmen of the District. Temporally and spiritually there had been prosperity in all the charges as a result of the Divine blessing on the faithful labors of the past [illegible].

[illegible] Presiding Elder of Salem District represented his work as being in ordinary prosperity. New church edifices have been completed at two different places, at Brownsville, [illegible] and would at be carried forward to completion.

T. F. Royal, Presiding Elder of the Umpqua District, represented all the several charges on that work as sharing in revivals except two.

H. K. Hines, Presiding Elder of the Puget Sound District, represented his work as being much more extensive than many of us are aware. It embraces fifteen counties in Washington Territory and two in Oregon. He had preachers on his work, that were he [illegible] be driven out of the work. Hence Providence the Bishops and [illegible] good will always supply them in the work.

J. B. Callaway, Presiding Elder of Walla Walla District, stated that some prosperity existed in a marked manner throughout his district. Sabbath schools were needed. The Dalles and Walla Walla were both sharing largely in the revival spirit, and needed more schools and more room for Sabbath schools and church services. [illegible] Canyon City and Ochoco were among the places without preachers, and he earnestly hoped that there were preachers who were willing to take up their cross in that sense and follow where duty leads.

The Yakima District was the field of labor for J. H. Wilbur, but shortly after the last Conference his place as Indian Agent was supplied, and the way was closed to his return. In the meantime Mathew and Pearne faithful Indian preachers had not only returned the 500 belonging to the Church when he left, but actually had added to their numbers.

A short recess was now had during which Chaplain McCabe, by request of the Bishop sang several of his most charming pieces, producing a delightful impression upon all present. "The old old Story of Jesus and His Love," "Your Mission" and "Mary Magdalen" were among [illegible] Chaplain McCabe's labors to entertain and build up the Church will not soon be forgotten by his Oregon brethren.

INTERESTING TO SOLDIERS.—We clip the following from the [illegible] Army Journal, a paper which devotes special attention to the interests of [illegible]: "Soldiers entitled under a recent act of Congress to artificial arms or legs have no need to employ an agent or attorney to procure either the limb or the money commutation therefor, and thus free from any useless red tape." Apply direct by mail to Gen. J. K. Barnes, Surgeon General of the Army, Washington, D. C., and he will send the necessary blanks and instructions [illegible] any further information is wanted as to the [illegible] steps call on the pension agent, on whose books the names &c. must appear. Fees to an agent or attorney are unnecessary for such service. Pension agents' fees for preparing papers and administering oaths cannot exceed forty cents in each case, and when the papers are prepared by the soldier himself (which can be done in twenty-nine cases out of a hundred) and he goes to a notary to have the oath administered, the [illegible] charges cannot exceed twenty-five cents. The legal charges are the same whether the soldier choose a new limb or money in lieu thereof."

FROM LAPWAI.—Hon. D. P. Thompson has just returned from a business trip to Northern Idaho. We learn from him that a serious accident lately occurred to Col. E. V. Sumner, at Lapwai, by which he lost the fore finger of his left hand by the accidental discharge of a shot gun. Four of the shot lodged in his neck, and [illegible] passed through his ear. This accident leaves but two fingers on his left hand, having lost the thumb and one finger in an engagement during the war. He is recovering, however, from the wound. Mr. Thompson informs us that the Nez Perces have prospered finely under the agency of Capt. D. C. Sells. They have raised [illegible] other grain and all manner of vegetables in abundance.

PLAZA CONCERT.—The usual display of equipages and distinguished citizens, will be made this evening at 6 o'clock at the Madison street Plaza, on the occasion of the regular concert by the 23d Infantry Band. The following is the programme:

2. Love Star Schottische.
3. Ballad—Drift My Bark.
4. Palermo Quadrille.
6. Waltz—Beautiful Blue Danube—J. Strauss.
7. Song—The Heart Bowed Down—Bohemian Girl.
8. [illegible] Schottische.

COMPLIMENT.—Dr. W. H. Watkins, President of the Board of Trustees of the Portland Academy and Female Seminary, published in the Advocate the announcement [illegible] patrons of that institution that Prof. J. B. M[illegible], A. B., who has had charge of the Commercial Department—as well as Instrumental and Vocal Music—in the State Normal School of Minnesota, will take the same position in our Academy. [illegible] Prof. Rogers [illegible] [illegible] and family will leave Minnesota next [illegible] He has the reputation of being a thorough accomplished teacher.

FALL TRADE.—[illegible] Goldsmith & Co., of this city, to-day notify the trade that on the 30th day of this month they will open the largest and best assorted stock of domestic and foreign dry goods to be found in this market comprising every kind of cotton goods known to the trade at reduced rates. Such notice, from this firm ought to attract trade from all parts of the State. They also invite special attention to their fancy goods, clothing, furnishing goods, boots and shoes. See advertisement.

POLICY PAID.—As will be seen by the card of Mr. R. Jacobs, administrator of the estate of S. Rosenstein, deceased, the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company, of Boston, have paid the $5 000 insurance on the life of Mr. Rosenstein, the policy of which Mr. Jacob expresses [illegible]. Words cannot express how welcome the money is to the bereaved widow, for it [illegible] protect her from [illegible]. [illegible] this is a great boon [illegible]

THE STEAMER.—This evening the new steamer [illegible] the last steamer, will be [illegible] on the trial trip of [illegible] the foot of Madison street where [illegible] [illegible] now be justly proud. [illegible] a credit both to the [illegible]

THE RAIN.—An heavy shower of rain fell yesterday in this section which greatly invigorated vegetation. We understand that it has not injured the grain crop in Oregon. If it were to do so it would be the first instance since the settlement of the valley of the Wallamet.

THE GREAT OVERLAND CIRCUS Dan Castello's great overland Circus which reached this city yesterday and gave a fine display in the afternoon march performed at the canvas pavilion last evening to a full audience The performance is better than anything of the kind which has ever appeared in this city and success is sure for the manager A matinee for families and children will be given at two o clock this afternoon There will also be an evening performance at eight o clock with an entire change of programme

ABATE IT —Parties should never be obstructed in the least in transporting produce or merchandise across walks to the door of places of business but a nuisance like that of leaving heaps of lime the waste from house barrels on the walks as may be seen above Columbia street on the west side of Front ought not to be tolerated That is a nuisance on a wet day like yesterday and should be abated

NOT AS BAD AS REPORTED The Mountaineer learns from reliable sources that the loss at the recent fire at Canyon City was not as great as at first reported as most all of the goods in what is called fire proof cellars were untouched We are really glad to hear this good news as also that the rebuilding of the town has already been commenced by the energetic citizens of that place

A NEW OBSTRUCTION —A very large snag has lodged in the channel of the river abreast of this city just above Taylor street which needs attention The snag puller has not been called into service for a long time except as a wood tender to the dredger but here is a chance for a small job

FRESH OYSTERS —Messrs Alisky & Hegele make the pleasing announcement that after the arrival of the Astoria boat they will be in receipt of extra fine Shoalwater Bay oysters which will be opened to the public at their refreshment saloon No 10 First street, this evening

NICHOLSON PAVEMENT —That section of the Nicholson pavement between First and Second streets on Morrison is now about completed The blocks were made at Besser & Co s mill were hauled by Mr Gill boiled in coal tar and put down by the contractors

TOLL STILL ASKED —We are informed by the gate keeper at the East Portland end of the Silverton Plank Road that they have not ceased taking toll for travel over that route The statement that such was the case was erroneous

STEAM ENGINES FOR SALE —At the regular sale to day by Mr Richardson three steam engines will be disposed of at auction They are particularly noted in another column See advertisement and be on hand early

SELECT SCHOOL.—Miss Lillie late of San Francisco, has opened a class of young pupils at her father s residence on Clay street She is said to be a most excellent teacher and we wish her all possible success

CONGREGATIONAL SERVICES —The old frame church edifice of the Congregational Society is yet in use for devotional purposes on the corner of First and Jefferson streets The bell rings at the usual hour

GIANT CEMENT —The Giant Cement advertised elsewhere in this paper is said to be an invaluable article for mending almost everything, and the rubber cement is almost unequalled in a similar respect.

LECTURE —Multnomah Lodge of Good Templars will be addressed this evening by Grand Worthy Chief Templar, C Beal All members of the Order within hail are invited to attend

STEAMERS TO SAIL.—The North Pacific Transportation Company advertise the dates, this morning, at which their steamers will leave this port for California, the Sound and Sitka

ARRIVED —The little steamer Swallow has again returned to her dock in this city, with a cargo of products purchased with goods and merchandise taken down

CITY MILLS —McLeran's mills are now running full on new white wheat and Vaughn's will commence running on wheat of the same quality, on Monday next

BEYOND AURORA —We understand that cars on the Oregon and California Railroad passed Aurora two miles or nearly so yesterday

OVER THE ROAD —We learn that Senator Geo H Williams passed over the line of the Oregon and California Railroad yesterday

POLITICAL NOTES

The nominations on the Tax Payers Ticket in San Francisco are divided between the Republicans and Democrats four of each being on the ticket Crowley is re nominated for Chief of Police

The colored people held a meeting in Cincinnati last week denouncing the action of the National Labor Congress for refusing to admit colored delegates and for some of the resolutions adopted

The San Francisco Examiner is very severe on the representatives of the Republican party, who declare the party sympathizes with Germany It calls them bold, bad men Really, this is terrible

The San Francisco Call learns that Congressman Axtell will return in a short time for the purpose of making preliminary arrangements to canvass the State for the Gubernatorial contest which comes off next year

A large Florida planter a Democrat who has some four hundred hands employed in instituting a majority of voters in his county has agreed with his laborers to support one of them for representative they, in turn, to support him for senator

Says the San Francisco Chronicle Elsewhere we publish some interesting facts concerning the nominees of the Democratic party It appears that out of a total of twenty one candidates only five are natives of the United States leaving sixteen naturalized citizens aspirants for office There are eight city and county officers to elect of these three are natives None of the six Supervisors claim to have been born in the United States and of the seven School Directors five are natives of Ireland one represents Massachusetts another South Carolina—the extremes of Radicalism and Confederatism These facts are of use as illustrating the progress of parties Perhaps there are a sufficient number of Americans on the ticket to catch the American vote

The Chicago Tribune thinks the French have more ... than the Germans The elan of the Germans leads on to Paris the elan of the French leads them in the same direction and the French are ahead with the Germans close behind them Hence it would seem that the French are superior in elan

Be on Your Guard

The unexampled success which for twenty years has accompanied the use of Hostetter s Stomach Bitters provokes the envy of ignorant nostrum mongers in all parts of the country and the counterfeiting business having been measurably played out in consequence of the numerous suits instituted against offenders a new system of tactics has been adopted In the South and West especially a legion of Bitters prepared from worthless materials and bearing a variety of names, have been got up by irresponsible adventurers with the hope of substituting them to some extent for the Standard Tonic of the Age In some cases country druggists are the concocters and proprietors of these unscientific and trashy compounds which are warmly recommended by the venders who endeavor to palm them off in lieu of the great specific which has never yet had a successful competitor either among the proprietary preparations or the medicines prescribed in private practice This notice is intended to put the public on their guard against persuasions of parties engaged in the attempt to substitute mere rubbish for the most efficient stomachic and alterative at present known At this season of the year it is of the greatest consequence that no tricks should be played with depressed and enfeebled systems Ask therefore for Hostetter s Stomach Bitters the great vegetable invigorant and alterative and reject, with deserved contempt the worse than useless medleys offered in its place It is as important to the public as to the proprietors of this famous restorative that this advice should be heeded

RIVERSIDE HOMESTEAD ASSOCIATION

This association of whose organization we gave an account a few days since is now ready to dispose of shares As it is with one exception (the Portland Homestead Association) the pioneer organization of that kind in this city, it may be well enough to state what are its purposes and the manner in which it is proposed to conduct its operations The purposes of these Homestead Associations are not at all speculative in the ordinary sense of the word They are dependent for the profits of their investment upon the natural advance in the value of their land consequent upon the co operation of many individuals shareholders and the advance on values of a surrounding lands by reason of the expansion of population and demand for room outside of but still near the city The Riverside Homestead Association has a fraction over one hundred and twenty acres of land situated just south of Brooklyn on the east side of the river the nearest boundary line being about one mile from the ferry landing at East Portland The tract lies in one strip along the Walamet river, half a mile in length, and another strip along the Oregon and California railroad half a mile in length the two strips being connected near the middle by two rows of blocks (with a street between them) the whole forming a figure not unlike the letter H It is divided into 74 blocks 200 feet square (with streets running at right angles) and 80 fractional lots along the river front The shares number 600 worth $50 per share It will be seen that a share thus represents nearly a lot with an undivided interest in the 80 fractional lots The 80 fractional shares are to be sold off at the proper time for the benefit of the Association, shareholders coming in for the proceeds in proportion to the number of shares held When all shares are taken and the Association shall determine to do it the choice of lots and blocks will be put up at auction to the highest bidder the proceeds of such sales after deducting the original price of shares or lots to be divided equally among the whole number of shares Thus if a person wants a particular lot or block and is willing to pay $100 or $500 premium (more or less as the case may be) he pays it and takes the lot or block as his individual property the premium being divided among the whole number of shareholders It will be seen therefore that everything is co operative, and all interests mutual No man can make a dollar out of it without also making a dollar for every other equal shareholder There is no chance for loss unless the property by some chance should depreciate far below the first actual cost Whether this is liable to happen in the case of this particular tract of land must be judged by each for himself but considering the steady and unprecedented advance on real estate in this city and neighborhood and at East Portland and vicinity for the last year or two it seems hardly possible for values to go back

In the Riverside Association all proper precautions seem to have been taken to guard against monopolies of shares No person is allowed to buy more than the number of shares representing three blocks or twenty four lots and votes determining the operations of the Association are restricted in the same manner The buyers of shares may pay down $50 per share which will exempt them from all assessments or they may pay $15 quarterly with an assessment of $3 per share payable with the first installment being liable in this latter case to another (and only one other) assessment of $3 per share Upon the payment of the shares in full, with the assessments as above the holder is entitled to his certificate and his proportion of all the profits accrued from all sources No officer of the Association receives any pay for services except the secretary who gets $25 per month so it will be seen that the expenses must be light

That part of the tract lying along the river is a high plateau nearly level, about 60 to 90 feet above the water There is no part of the front row of blocks but commands a splendid view of Portland and the river for miles up and down stream That part of the tract lying along the railroad is every foot of it, of the richest loam soil and adapted to gardening purposes A beautiful little stream of pure water runs through almost the entire length of this wing of the tract affording the means of irrigation and power sufficient to supply pure water to every part of the whole tract There is not a waste lot or fractional lot in the entire tract Under all these advantages it would seem impossible that there should be any chance of loss to shareholders Within a year each shareholder if he choose may get a perfect title to as many lots as his shares may represent, or he may continue his interest undivided with the Association while the organization may exist —Oregonian

METZ AND ITS MILITARY IMPORTANCE

The following article from the New York Herald of the 11th inst., may serve to explain some of the strategical movements of French Marshals. It would seem that they are now possibly entertaining an idea of repeating the Napoleonic strategy of 1814.

Whether Bazaine will risk a general engagement with his army seems undecided, as we have a report that he intends retiring to the Vosges mountains, thereby uncovering Paris. To the superficial mind such a movement as this may seem another evidence of French weakness. But, in fact, it would be an admirable change of front. It is the same plan which Napoleon I began in 1814, viz: to uncover Paris and retire to the fortresses of Alsace and Loraine. Baron Jomini writes that had Marmont or Mortier joined him, and had he possessed 50,000 more men this plan would have produced the most decisive results, and have put the seal on his military career."

METZ AS AN OBSTACLE TO A PRUSSIAN ADVANCE.

Should the French army now concentrated in front of Metz be defeated in a general engagement and fall back upon the Vosges mountains, or should it voluntarily retire to the mountains, the road to Paris would be open to the Prussians. Before an advance could be made it would be necessary to reduce Metz, and just here the Germans would encounter their first difficulty. Metz is the strongest fortress in France and is regarded as impregnable to any thing but starvation or voluntary surrender. In 1552 the Constable Montmorency gained possession of it by stratagem. Charles V., Emperor of Germany, immediately after besieged it with 100,000 men. At the end of ten months he raised the siege and retired, having lost 30,000 of his forces in a fruitless contest.

The present fortifications of Metz were planned by Vauban. It may be well to say here that the city is seated on the Moselle river, at the junction of a small stream called La Seille. The population is nearly 70,000. The city is entirely surrounded by fortifications, so constructed that they can be defended by 10,000 men or by 100,000. Several forts, crossing each other's fire and sweeping the surrounding country for miles, are situated at intervals around the place. One of the most important of these is called Belle Croix, and is regarded as a chef d'œuvre of military construction. Next in strength comes La Double Couronne, an immense work, surrounded with a triple ditch filled with water. In addition there is the great redoubt of Le Pate, which can be converted into an island by closing the sluices on the Seille. About 300 guns of heavy calibre are mounted on these works. There are, besides, bastions and redans for light artillery. A fourth great fort is said to have been constructed quite recently, which, if true, adds greatly to the strength of the city. In fact, when it is borne in mind that to reach the fortifications it will be necessary for an assailing force to cross two ditches, fifty feet wide by eighty deep, the impossibility of carrying Metz by storm will be perceived. Furthermore, the waters of the Seille can be raised twenty-four feet, flooding the surrounding country so as to form a lake six miles in extent.

Ordinarily the garrison of Metz numbers about 15,000 men. Should the French army uncover Paris, we suppose that a force of 25,000 or 30,000 men, without including the Garde Mobile of the city, would be left to defend it. And here, as we said before, the troubles of the Prussians begin. Nothing short of treachery, cowardice or starvation is likely to reduce Metz. Twenty thousand men can defend it against any force that can possibly be brought against it. Nevertheless if the Prussians push on to Paris, leaving it behind, and are defeated in a general engagement, they could only retreat to Germany by cutting their way through the garrison, which would by this time have sallied out to oppose them. They could leave a corps to watch the city, but this would weaken the main army and expose the corps to a sudden and disastrous defeat from the French.

Mysteries of Mileage.

A mousing correspondent of the Indianapolis Journal, writing from Washington, has been investigating the mileage question, and measuring the mileage bill of the Government in this Republican day with the days when the Democracy was in power. He recalls the fact—which almost everybody has forgotten—that no sooner had the Republican party come into power than the mileage paid to members of Congress was cut down one-half—that is, from forty cents to twenty cents per mile. The total reduction of mileage, however, as the figures show, has been a great deal more than a half. In 1859 there was paid to Senators $75,911 as mileage. In 1869, with six more Senators, there was paid $29,312 40, a difference of $46,597 60. Of course the question arises, how is it that with more Senators, the total mileage is nearly $10,000 less than half what it used to be? The correspondent thus explains the mystery: Members of Congress certify to the number of miles they travel, and their word and honor has usually been deemed sufficient. According to their certificates then, these old fathers of Israel traveled a good many more miles than their Republican successors; and my heart fairly bled for the vigorous old gentlemen when I noted their long and weary search for this historic spot on the banks of the placid Potomac. There was Johnson of Arkansas; when he was a Senator it was four thousand miles from Little Rock to Washington and back. Now it is not so much by a thousand miles at least, so says Rice his Republican successor. Think of poor Green, of Missouri, tramping three thousand five hundred miles to reach the capital, while Drake meanly cuts it across lots and saves one thousand five hundred miles the former coming up at a cost to the people of $1,400, the latter for less than $500. We used to pay that eminent diplomatist, Gwin, of California, nearly $6,000 for coming to Washington. We get Cole, a Republican, here for $1,300. It cost us $800 every time that shining Democrat, Jesse D. Bright, turned his face to the capital, but Morton comes down for $359 a year. Graham N. Fitch, of Indiana, had a very weary time of it, for he traveled 2,865 miles, and finally reached Washington, after much suffering, at a national expense of $1,146. Pratt though living in the same town, discovered some wonderful route 1,200 miles shorter, and so we get him here and back again, heavy as he is, for $339 20.

The great and good man, David Turpie, when he had the misfortune to be a Senator for a few days, wandered about like a lost sheep until finally his eyes were gladdened at the sight of the dome, after having traveled 2,636 miles. Colfax, Packard and others made the distance from Northern Indiana to the capital from 800 to 900 miles shorter than did Turpie.

Davis, the great and costly Jefferson, traveled 4,000 miles every time he came to the capital, and charged us $1,600 for the trip. Revels, blacker, more modest, living 150 miles further away, cuts across the country 1,000 miles nearer, and charges $1,000 less for the job. These figures are from the official records, and challenge contradiction.

GERMANY UNITED BY THE WAR.—A letter from Hamburg to the New York Tribune says:

The Germans are indebted to the Emperor Napoleon for unintentionally accomplishing, in the space of a few days, that which Count Bismarck with all his astuteness, sagacity, and moral courage, has been unable to achieve during the four years that have elapsed since the events of 1866, for he has bridged over the Main, or rather expunged that river as the line of demarcation between North and South Germany, and effected the happy union of the two by the electrical magic of the word "patriotism," which he has called forth in the bosom of all the Teutonic races, from the North Sea to the Alps and from the frontiers of Russia to those of France. And now that they are all so happily united, which union will be further cemented by their fighting side by side under one banner, displayed by the King of Prussia, there is no reason to fear their relapsing into that unfortunate state of "particularism" and petty self-interest which has for so long a period been the bane of Germany diplomacy, and which was only partially overcome by the events of 1866. It may be argued that the Southern States could not well have acted differently without loosing much of their prestige, and perhaps making a sacrifice of their material interests; for they would have been placed in this predicament, and have had to choose between two alternatives. If France comes out of the war victorious they must necessarily become her vassals, and, should Germany conquer, they would be of no use as independent States, and very questionable value as allies, so that they would be swallowed up or annexed to Prussia. The step that they have taken is, therefore not only much more dignified, and shows their self respect, but is also a proof of their political wisdom and foresight, while it is clear [illegible] the house of Prussia [illegible] on the importance of their alliance, and the confidence it reposes in their cooperation by appointing the Crown Prince to the command of the Army of the South. Under all circumstances and whatever may be the result of the war, it is to be hoped that the North and the South will remain indissolubly united as one powerful Germany, and thus realize the day dreams of visionary patriots.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

PORTLAND, Friday, August 26, 1870.

Advices of August 23d, from New York inform us of a combination to buoy the gold market, it having been stated that a pool of $15,000,000 had been formed with that view. A heavy demand for gold for European export, and currency for the Western States seem to assist the movement, but it cannot be felt in this part of the country very greatly, if at all, for the simple reason that here, in our currency transactions, money is usually held for an advance in case of a decline for any reason, and it would be more so in a case like this, which is purely speculative. The current banking quotations in this city to-day, are as follows: Greenbacks, 86½c buying; selling, 87½c.; Gold Bars, 71c.; Bonds, 93 cents.

Exchange, N. Y.—Currency, 1 per cent.; Gold, 2½ per cent.; Telegraph, 3 per cent.; San Francisco—Gold, par; Currency, ½ per cent.

Gold in [illegible] at 117; Greenbacks, S. F., 86½@86½.

Wholesale trade is firm at previous quotations, generally with full assortments and promises to continue so for the season. We might add to the woolen goods quoted below, a lower grade of Oregon manufactures at prices as follows: Blankets—No. 1, $6; No. 3, $4; AA, $14; A, $11; B, $10; C, $8 50; E, $7 50; F, $7, which are produced at the Oregon City Mills and in growing demand.

The trade in paints and oils is active at quotations below. Atlantic lead, wooden cased, is selling at $13, tin cased, $13 50; American zinc, 12½c; French do, 16. There is no Downer's kerosene in this market, and we have stricken that from our lists.

Messrs Williams & Myers have introduced a new quality of starch, "San Jose Wheaten," which is quoted in packages of 12 and 6 lbs each, at 10@12c. This California production is said to be good, yet we observe that its introduction has not prevented California from drawing her supplies from the East.

The weekly retail markets are very liberally supplied with all manner of products, which are gradually cheapening in price as the supply increases. Families are feeling the urgent necessity of a public market in the city, and the demand for such an institution, will soon assert itself, we incline to believe, in a manner which will insure action on the part of the Council. The want of a proper time, and a proper place, to deal in market produce for family uses, and the system of buying, which has no precedent in a city of this size, is apparent to every family.

Domestic produce is not above the quotations we give in any particular. The city mills have been purchasing some new wheat at $1 for present needs, but 95c for sacked choice white winter wheat is the extreme rate for shipping. Red, 75@80c, according to quantity and quality. The European and California markets are daily weakening, and we think farmers here would not miss it to sell at present quotations. It is not considered that there has been any damage sustained to crops as yet by recent showers of rain.

Canned salmon has become quite a commodity and is quotable in wholesale transactions at from $2 25 to $2 25 per case of one and two pound cans.

Remarking upon the breadstuffs market, our latest dates by mail from San Francisco furnish the following. We quote from the Commercial Herald:

The market is exceedingly inert, owing to lessened Liverpool rates, received daily by cable, the conflicting nature of European crop and war advices, coupled with a general indisposition to operate in flour and grain, in part occasioned by the vacillating and unreliable nature of market advices. To illustrate, we copy a single paragraph from the London correspondent of the New York Financial Chronicle, dated July 23d, in relation to the effect of war on grain:

"The advance since the war is 6s to 8s per quarter but I do not think that, with such glorious weather for the harvest, and with favorable accounts respecting the crop, combined with the circumstance that there is not at present any fear of the war extending, there is any justification of a further rise. That the advance will be beneficial to the consumer I have no reason to doubt, for it will bring large supplies here, and augment, at an early date, the stocks in reserve. But France and Prussia have ceased to be large wheat-exporting countries, and so long as they keep their quarrel to themselves, there need be no fear of dear bread. Of the total supplies of Wheat imported into the United Kingdom in the first five months of this year, only one-tenth was from France and Prussia, the bulk being from the United States and Russia. There is, it must be admitted, much waste in war. France may import, and thus enhance the price of Wheat by buying in the United States; while Prussia may be compelled to purchase in the Austrian Danubian, and Russian provinces. But I do not think this will be carried on to an extent which will have any serious effect upon prices. It is desirable, however, that our quotations should be kept up, so as to draw the requisite supplies before the winter sets in."

The last sentence, placed by us in italics, illustrates the principle. It is an old dodge, with which the writer and doubtless many others, have in times past been caused to bleed freely for the benefit of transatlantic friends. This old habit of sending abroad false quotations of Flour and Wheat ought to be done away with. At this date, but few English orders for Breadstuffs are in hand at limits that will allow their execution, even at $1 75 for Wheat and £2 15s freight.

Cable reports say that the weather throughout England is fine, and favorable to the harvesting of crops. French reports are that the Wheat crops will exceed the yearly average by forty per cent.

The Mark Lane Express of the 25th of July says the Wheat crop will be a full average product, if not more. All the spring corn must be short, especially Oats, Beans and Peas. The Economist of the 30th of July says the excitement noticed in the corn trade last week has lead to a reaction, which might naturally have been anticipated. After so rapid a rise in values the favorable harvest prospects have had a depressing influence on trade. The latest mail accounts from France about any yield of Wheat continue contradictory. In some parts it is good and in others bad. At most French markets the grain supply was small, and there was generally an upward movement in prices; but the demand was limited. Accounts from Russia generally are favorable for an abundant harvest.

Our millers are idle most of the time for lack of export orders.

The arrivals of Grain and Flour at tide water since the incoming of the new crop are fully equal to those for a corresponding period last year; yet the receipts in this city to date show a considerable falling off, for the reason that a greater quantity of Wheat than usual is held in the interior, farmers not inclined to sell freely, and besides there is not the same necessity for hurrying grain forward as heretofore, owing to railroad extensions, penetrating large grain growing sections that hitherto were inaccessible to market at certain seasons.

Oats are lower than for a long time past, resulting from the want of an export demand and good crop yields. The Hay market is heavily stocked, and prices steady. Potatoes and Onions in free supply.

We remark a falling off in our Dairy supplies, which is the occasion of some advance in the price of choice roll Butter. Cheese, on the contrary, is superabundant and cheap. There is a marked falling off in our receipts of Oregon Smoked Meats, prices are, therefore, tending upwards. Our local deliveries, however, continue free, both of Bacon, Hams, and Lard. Eggs are scarce and high.

Wool from the fall clip is now beginning to come forward more freely, selling at fair prices. Hides are in moderate supply, and taken steadily. Eastern advices about Leather are more favorable to shippers hence. Tallow continues in fair supply at the late decline in rates.

HOAGLAND'S

NEW PATENT SHAFT COUPLING!

HAS PURCHASED THE RIGHT FOR THIS County of the above Patent, and will hereafter use it in the construction of all the Vehicles manufactured at his extensive

Carriage Factory,

Corner of Second and Morrison Streets.

He respectfully refers to the following

CARD.

Having examined the New Patent Shaft Coupling, invented by H. R. Hoagland, we feel pleasure in informing the public that in our opinion it is the safest and best method of connecting shafts or tongues to all vehicles that has ever been used.

It fastens without bolt or screw, and is therefore, easily and speedily separated. It contains Gutta Percha so as to be entirely free from the rattling sound which so often disturbs restless horses. It is easily changed so that the shafts or tongue may be detached in an instant, and is convenient, safe and secure.

It is easy to change to this style of coupling any buggy or other vehicle now in use, and with small expense. We have come to the conclusion to use this new invention ourselves and recommend its use in all cases. We consider it far superior to the Brewster Patent, heretofore considered the best in use.

NEW PATENT SHAFT COUPLING!

HAS PURCHASED THE RIGHT FOR THIS County of the above Patent, and will hereafter use it in the construction of all the Vehicles manufactured at his extensive

Carriage Factory,

Corner of Second and Morrison Streets.

He respectfully refers to the following

CARD.

Having examined the New Patent Shaft Coupling, invented by H. R. Hoagland, we feel pleasure in informing the public that in our opinion it is the safest and best method of connecting shafts or tongues to all vehicles that has ever been used.

It fastens without bolt or screw, and is therefore, easily and speedily separated. It contains Gutta Percha so as to be entirely free from the rattling sound which so often disturbs restless horses. It is easily changed so that the shafts or tongue may be detached in an instant, and is convenient, safe and secure.

It is easy to change to this style of coupling any buggy or other vehicle now in use, and with small expense. We have come to the conclusion to use this new invention ourselves and recommend its use in all cases. We consider it far superior to the Brewster Patent, heretofore considered the best in use.
